

Name: Ms. Anju Kakkar

Designation: Assistant Professor (Ad-hoc)

Email id: anju.kakkar@lic.du.ac.in

Educational Qualifications: B.Arch, PG diploma in urban planning and development from IGNOU

Research Areas: Design thinking, Interior design, Product design, facilities and service management, computer-aided design (CAD), Ergonomics, Urban planning and designing user friendly sustainable spaces

Brief bio: Anju kakkar is an architect, urban planner and educator with more than thirty years of industrial and academia experience. Registered member with Council of Architecture and Indian Institute of Architects. Recipient of research Project on "Interiors of a Classroom: Influence on Teaching Learning Process" funded by Delhi University. She has also done a certificate course in Design thinking from IIT Madras.

Delivered lecture for “Readers with Special Needs: Issues and Challenges” organised by World Book Fair , Delhi. She is also a subject expert with Inter University Accelerator Centre, CEC for designing MOOC courses on interior design and course writer with IGNOU for various courses including ‘Certificate Program in Interior Decoration’. She has authored books “Interiors of a Classroom, Influence on Teaching Learning Process” ISBN 978-93-83837-47-2, and manuals on “Interior space designing” ISBN No: 81-88901-44-X. She has published several papers in national and international journals like "Making existing homes green and energy efficient: "Case study of studio apartments in Delhi and NCR."