

Akash Dewangan is distinguished by his academic affiliations with esteemed institutions such as the Indian Institute of Mass Communication, Jawaharlal Nehru University, and Delhi University. His scholarly pursuits are focused on Political Communication, New Media, and the evolving narratives within Global Media Discourses. Akash's academic path reflects a dedicated exploration of the intricate relationship between media dynamics and political processes, highlighting the pivotal role of media in influencing public narratives and its consequential effects on international communication paradigms.