From the Director's Desk

Dear Students,

A warm welcome to Lady Irwin College a beacon of academic excellence, innovation and women empowerment. The college has been rated A+ by NAAC and hold an all India NIRF rank of 23 among colleges in 2024. Set up in 1932 the college has an illustrious legacy shaped by visionary leaders for upholding core values of cultural rootedness, social responsibility and sustainable development.

As the Director of this esteemed Women's College, I am both honored and deeply committed to guiding an institution that has, for decades, stood as a beacon of knowledge, empowerment, and transformation in the lives of countless young women. Our college is not just a place of academic instruction, but a vibrant, nurturing space where minds are ignited, characters are shaped, and futures are forged with resilience and purpose. In today's rapidly evolving world, where the challenges facing women are as complex as they are diverse, we believe that education must transcend the confines of textbooks and lecture halls to become a force that truly empowers women in every sense—intellectually, emotionally, socially, and ethically.

In 2022-23 the college took quantum strides in implementing the undergraduate curriculum framework (UGCF 2022) approved by the University of Delhi under the National Education Policy with a focus upon interdisciplinarity and building holistic skills of students. Our vision is to cultivate confident, competent, and compassionate women who are not only academically accomplished but also socially aware and ready to lead in a globalized world. We have consistently emphasized a curriculum that combines academic excellence with critical thinking, creativity, and a strong sense of responsibility toward society. In this context, our faculty plays a pivotal role; they are more than educators—they are mentors, motivators, and role models who inspire students to dream beyond the ordinary and pursue excellence in every field they choose. Equally, we have invested heavily in upgrading our infrastructure, introducing modern pedagogical tools, digital learning platforms, and interdisciplinary learning methods to ensure our students are equipped with the 21st-century skills required to thrive in an increasingly interconnected world. Whether it is through our STEAM initiatives, research programs, arts and culture forums, or entrepreneurship cells, we are committed to ensuring that our students have opportunities to explore, express, and excel. However, what truly distinguishes our institution is our unwavering commitment to gender equity and women's empowerment. In a world where gender stereotypes and systemic barriers continue to hinder progress, we aim to provide a safe, inclusive, and supportive environment where every young woman is encouraged to find her voice, speak her truth, and claim her rightful place in society. Our workshops on leadership, legal literacy, mental health, financial independence, and self-defense are just some of the ways we prepare our students not just for careers, but for life. Moreover, through our strong alumni network, community engagement programs, and national and international collaborations, we ensure that our students are not isolated learners but part of a larger movement for positive change.

We understand that each student comes to us with unique aspirations, challenges, and potential, and our responsibility as an institution is to support that journey with empathy and excellence. Over the years, we have seen our graduates become successful professionals, committed social workers, creative artists, impactful entrepreneurs, dedicated scientists, and visionary leaders across sectors. Their success is not only a testament to their own perseverance but also a reflection of the quality and depth of education they have received here. I am particularly proud of the values we instill in our students—integrity, inclusivity, perseverance, and a commitment to justice—which I believe are more important today than ever before. At a time when the world is grappling with unprecedented challenges, from climate change to digital disruption, economic disparities to cultural conflicts, we need educated women who can think critically, act ethically, and lead wisely. Our college strives to be the fertile ground where such leaders are nurtured. We also believe in the importance of community—of creating a sense of belonging among our students, faculty, staff, and alumni. This sense of community is what gives our college its unique character, where mutual respect, collaboration, and shared purpose drive everything we do. It is heartening to see students support each other, faculty going the extra mile to mentor, and alumni giving back to strengthen the foundation from which they once took flight. In this spirit of togetherness, we regularly host academic seminars, cultural festivals, innovation summits, and outreach programs that not only enrich our academic calendar but also provide platforms for dialogue, creativity, and social responsibility.

Our partnerships with local NGOs, industry leaders, research institutions, and global universities reflect our belief in the power of collaboration to broaden horizons and solve complex problems. These initiatives are not mere additions to our academic program but essential elements of a holistic education that prepares students to be both thinkers and doers. As we look to the future, we are deeply conscious of our responsibility to stay ahead of the curve. We are actively exploring new programs in emerging fields like data science, environmental studies, digital humanities, and gender-tech interfaces, along with strengthening our postgraduate and doctoral research capacity. We are also committed to increasing access to education by offering scholarships, financial aid, and outreach programs to students from underprivileged and marginalized communities. Inclusivity is not a slogan for us—it is a guiding principle, one that shapes our admissions policy, pedagogical approach, and community engagement. In the years ahead, we aim to become not only a center of academic excellence but also a model for inclusive, sustainable, and socially responsive education. I firmly believe that a women's college today must be more than an academic institution—it must be a movement, a sanctuary, a launchpad, and above all, a transformative space where women learn not only who they are, but who they can become. This journey is not without its challenges. Funding, policy changes, societal pressures, and evolving student needs demand constant innovation and adaptability. But I am confident that with our dedicated faculty, supportive administration, enthusiastic students, and visionary leadership at every level, we will continue to rise to these challenges and emerge stronger. I urge every student here to make the most of the opportunities available, to question, to create, to care, and to lead. To our faculty and staff, I extend my deepest gratitude for your unwavering commitment, and to our parents and community partners, thank you for your trust and collaboration. Together, let us continue to shape a future where every woman, regardless of her background, can walk with confidence, speak with courage, and live with dignity. The journey of women's education and empowerment is far from over, but with every step we take here, we are contributing meaningfully to that larger vision. Let this college be the place where dreams begin, voices are heard, and lives are transformed. The education here will not only give you knowledge, but strives to empower you to make you socially responsible, and becoming a force for positive change; true to the motto of the college 'Vidya hi Sewa' i.e. knowledge for serving the community. Discover and realize your true potential, welcome to Lady Irwin College!

College Song

O! The world is full of colleges;
But there's one that's our own,
It's a college that teaches courage;
Even though we stand alone.
It's a college that tries the motto;
That all women should equal be
of all colleges upon the earth;
This is the college for me.

College of mine, mine, mine (2);
From northern snows
To southern shores
From eastern hills
To western sands.
With the old girls standing by you
There's none that can defy you.
College of mine (3).

The teachers here are so many;
And so are students too.
But still we all are one;
Working towards our goal
It's you Lady Irwin
To whom we sing our gratitude
Long may you live to give and teach
All girls who come to learn.

College of mine, mine, mine (2);
From northern snows
To southern shores
From eastern hills
To western sands
With the old girls standing by you
There's none that can defy you.
College of mine (3).

DEPARTMENT OF FOOD & NUTRITION AND FOOD TECHNOLOGY

The Department of Food and Nutrition, established since 1958, was the first Postgraduate Department of Lady Irwin College. It offers M.Sc. in Food and Nutrition in three areas of specialization, namely, Clinical Nutrition, Public Health Nutrition, and Food Science and Processing and a one-year Post-Graduate Diploma in Dietetics and Public Health Nutrition (PGDDPHN) with a 3-month internship in the Dietetics Department of a hospital. The master's program is also strengthened by a 4–6-week summer placement in different hospitals, NGOs, research institutes and the food industry. In addition, the Department offers a Ph.D. program in all three areas of specialization. B.Sc. (Hons) Food Technology course was started in Lady Irwin College in July 2017.

The excellent academic program of the Department is enriched by the laboratory experience, as well as community outreach activities, supported by easy access to well-equipped laboratories, Department library, computers, and other necessary facilities. The different courses have been expanded and diversified to meet the emerging needs and challenges in the field of Nutrition and Food Technology. This has been achieved through not only course work but with emphasis given to research, community work focusing on capacity building of underprivileged sections of the population, seminars, internship/training in hospitals, food industries, and related organizations, educational tours, conferences, and workshops.

Lady Irwin College is an empaneled training partner under the Food Safety Training and Certification (FoSTaC) initiative of FSSAI since 30th June 2017. Faculty members are certified trainers and assessors and more than 300 trainees have undergone the Food Safety Supervisor – basic/advanced catering and manufacturing certification courses. The Department is also recognized as the "National Centre of Excellence and Advanced Research on Diets" since 2018. Department of Food & Nutrition and Food Technology has been recognized as the State Level Technical Institution (SLTI) for Delhi Government under the Pradhan Mantri Formalization of Micro Food Processing Enterprise (PMFME) Flagship Scheme by the Ministry of Food Processing Industries, GoI in 2020. A grant has been received from the Department of Biotechnology, Ministry of Science and Technology under the Star College Scheme to strengthen Education and Training for the BSc (Hons) Food Technology Program in 2020.

DEPARTMENT OF DEVELOPMENT COMMUNICATION & EXTENSION

The Department of Development Communication & Extension was founded in 1964 under the Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India, initially known as the Rural Community Extension. The course underwent restructuring after the adoption of the nomenclature "Development Communication and Extension" (DCE) in 2007. The Department specializes in educating students on social and behavioural change communication, refining their understanding of communication strategies, and equipping them with the skills to develop effective media and methodologies for facilitating such changes. One of the cornerstones of the department is its robust extension programme. The curriculum is designed to build theoretical and conceptual understanding along with practical skills in participatory methods and techniques. Students are oriented to various social issues, techniques of advocacy & capacity building and skill development of different stakeholder groups. Over the years, the Department has evolved into a multi-faceted experiential learning hub, providing students with holistic training to address diverse issues of different communities. Students receive comprehensive field exposure through concurrent fieldwork in both urban and rural communities, and six weeks internships within development organizations, government departments, and corporate organisations. The Department collaborates with various agencies to facilitate its extension and outreach activities.

Following are the thrust areas of the Department:

- Social & Behaviour Change Communication
- Advocacy for Health, Environment and Well-Being
- Community Organisation
- Participatory Development
- Gender and Development
- Training and Capacity Building
- Research-qualitative and quantitative approaches
- Monitoring & Evaluation
- Fundraising & Resource Mobilization

ROSHNI- Centre of Women Collectives led Social Action, is a technical support unit under the Ministry of Rural Development (MoRD), Government of India. The Centre is housed in the Department of Development Communication and Extension. It functions as a technical and capacity-building hub for the scaling up of FNHW and Gender interventions, aligned with the Deendayal Antyodaya Yojana- National Rural Livelihood Mission (India's flagship poverty alleviation programme). It provides vital support for key assessments to scale up FNHW interventions and integrate them into livelihood programming by developing advisory and resource packages. It offers national-level support for Social and Behaviour Change Communication (SBCC) aspects of the programming. It designs training programmes, centered around SBCC approaches and frameworks. The Centre extends support to states by providing specific inputs for planning Annual Action Plans and defining FNHW focus areas and scale up in additional states.

Department of Resource Management & Design Application

The Department strives at empowerment through knowledge and skills towards management of personal, family, community and shared resources for creation of sensitive, aesthetic and sustainable environment.

The Postgraduate Department of Resource Management & Design Application (RMDA) at Lady Irwin College was established in 1964. Since then, it has undergone periodic revisions and updates to its nomenclature and curriculum. In 2007, a comprehensive curriculum reform led to the renaming of the department to "Resource Management and Design Application" to better align with emerging industry demands. Further revisions were made in 2009, transitioning to a semester mode, and in 2018, adopting the Choice Based Credit Scheme to enhance flexibility and student choice.

The department offers M.Sc. program with two areas of specialization- Space and Product Design, and Environment Management & Sustainable Development. This two-year program is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of resource management, encompassing human, material, and natural resources, and their integration with design functions. The curriculum emphasizes both theoretical knowledge and practical experience to ensure a well-rounded education.

As part of its commitment to academic excellence, the department has established partnerships, including a Memorandum of Understanding with the School of Planning, Design & Construction at Michigan State University. This collaboration facilitates various initiatives such as Department Task Force, an Annual Symposium, and opportunities for master's and doctoral researches.

DEPARTMENT OF SCIENCE

The Department of Science strive for transacting basic science theory and activities encompassing the systematic study of the structure and behaviour of the physical and natural world through observation and experiment.

The Science Department of Lady Irwin College has its roots in the initiation of the B.Sc. Home Science degree programme in the year 1950. The Science Department is comprising highly qualified faculties from various disciplines: Botany, Biomedical Sciences, Chemistry, Environmental Sciences, Horticulture, Molecular Biology, Physics, Zoology, etc. The Science Department has an interdisciplinary approach and is committed to inculcate rational thinking, inculcate scientific temper and decision making among undergraduate students through basic and practical teaching in the streams of Botany, Chemistry, Physics and Zoology. The curriculum of the subjects trains students in the laws of natural science through supportive practical experiments and field visits. Our students come from various educational backgrounds, and many of them do not have adequate initial training in science. So this curriculum helps create a level playing field for everyone by the time they are ready to pass out and join their professional duties. After completing their undergraduate programs, students can pursue postgraduates in food and nutrition, human development and childhood studies, Fabric and apparel science, development communication and extension and resource management and design application. In all these courses, the background of science training helps them excel.

Science courses also help students develop research skills in science to conduct research at the Masters and Ph.D. level. Many students opt for B.Ed and B.Ed Special Education after completing their undergraduate programs. Having a strong science base at the undergraduate level, students are able to efficiently teach science to school students after completing their Bachelor of Education. Science courses provide skills and build capacity for students to become leaders in their professional lives. The Department of Science is committed to conducting research-based activities for the benefit of students and the entire academia. The activities involve interdisciplinary research covering various dimensions from all the core subjects like botany, chemistry, physics, zoology and environmental science. The faculty is guiding students working in various areas of research such as study of physicochemical properties of honey, vitamin-C analysis, etc. under the DBT STAR programme. Other areas of research include studies on birds, urban ecosystems and food habitat sustainability, long term population dynamics of water bird communities and climate change, macro fauna diversity in agricultural soils for sustainable production of food, availability of food commodities through urban agricultural practices, impact of polluted Yamuna water on agricultural practices followed by the farming community. Faculty members have also worked on molecular docking and MD simulations of various drug molecules on various viruses. They have been involved in introducing students to scientific writing for research journals and encouraging them to write research papers.

The department organizes various academic activities like lectures, tree planting, environmental conservation activities, field visits, eco-club activities, quiz etc. and make the students aware about eco-friendly farming and organic food. The curriculum of the department has been changing from time to time keeping in mind the needs of the students of today's world. The department organizes annual debate competition in memory of Dr. APJ Abdul Kalam to promote scientific and environmental thinking among the youth. The department also organizes invited lectures on National Science Day. Several webinars/invited talks/workshops of eminent scientists working in various fields of science are also organized by the department to make the students aware of the ongoing scientific research in various fields. The department offers value added courses (Science and Society), skill enhancement courses and GE papers in Zoology, Botany, Physics, Chemistry and Environmental Science. The department has constituted Science Journal Club under the visionary guidance of our former Director Prof. Anupa Siddhu. The science Journal club prepares the students to have analytical thinking, be observant, have a rational approach, value and acknowledge the importance of our nature and natural resources.

Prof. Shraddha Kapoor, Dr. Dimple Rangila

The Rajkumari Amrit Kaur Child Study Centre has been an integral part of the Department of Human Development and Childhood Studies (HDCS), Lady Irwin College. In its symbiotic relationship with the department, it functions as a laboratory setting for students, while the department acts as a technical support to the Centre from time to time. Since its inception in 1955, it caters to the educational and developmental needs of children from birth to 12 years of age, including children with special needs. The Centre is dedicated to creating a positive and inclusive learning environment for children, focusing on hands-on experiences and the play-way method to make learning enjoyable. The emphasis on incorporating novel and age appropriate activities reflects a commitment to engaging children in ways that cater to their developmental stages. The recognition of each child's uniqueness and the provision of adequate resources, guidance, and support for learning at their own pace align with a student-centered approach. The mention of Individual Education Plans and peer interaction indicates a personalized approach to education, tailoring learning experiences to meet the specific needs of each child. The commitment to inclusion by mainstreaming differently abled children is noteworthy. Sensitizing the community towards their needs and rights is an essential step in fostering understanding and support for all children, regardless of their abilities. By recognizing and addressing various aspects of a child's development, including cognitive, social, emotional, and physical dimensions, the Centre is likely to contribute significantly to the overall well-rounded growth of the children under its care. Focusing on cognitive development ensures that children are intellectually stimulated and engaged in meaningful learning experiences. Incorporating social activities fosters the development of crucial interpersonal skills, teamwork, and communication. Emotional well-being is equally important, and by providing a supportive and nurturing environment, the Centre helps children build resilience, self-esteem, and emotional intelligence. Addressing physical well-being indicates that physical activities not only promote physical health but can also have positive effects on cognitive and emotional aspects. This comprehensive approach aligns with contemporary educational theories that emphasize the interconnectedness of various developmental domains. Overall, the philosophy and practices outlined suggest a holistic approach to early childhood education, emphasizing not only cognitive development but also the social, emotional, and physical well-being of each child. The centre also acts as a space for providing supervision to ECCE trainees from other educational institutions such as IGNOU and Mobile Crèches.

“The best arguments are not about shouting louder, but about thinking deeper.” ~Shashi Tharoor

In the ever-evolving landscape of intellectual pursuit, Vani-The Debating Society, the voice of Lady Irwin College itself, stands as a crucible where ideas are forged, perspectives are sharpened, and voices are empowered. Like a beacon amidst the fog of ambiguity, the society has continued to illuminate the path of reasoned discourse, encouraging students to navigate complex issues with clarity, confidence, and conviction. With the motto, “Empowering Voices, Shaping Perspectives” we proved as a platform not only for verbal sparring, but as a sanctuary for intellectual courage — where the freedom to question is cherished, and the pursuit of truth is ceaseless. Our guiding purpose is to shape minds that do not just speak, but speak with meaning; to empower voices that challenge, persuade, and inspire.

The year commenced with the Society Orientation, offering new members a warm introduction to the vision, values, and legacy of Vani. This initiation was soon followed by the Freshers' Talent Contest, a vibrant showcase of wit and eloquence that set the intellectual tempo for the year ahead. Through two dynamic formats - JAM (Just A Minute) and a Conventional Debate Competition, first-year students showcased their spontaneity, expression and confidence. Auditions for the Core Team were also held during this period. One of the thought-provoking additions to this year's calendar was an intra-college group discussion on the motion –

“The world does not need religion.” We also collaborated with the NSS unit of Lady Irwin College, and successfully hosted, Manthan, inter-college debate competition with the motion, “This House condemns the use of religion to divide India's diverse communities and calls for policies that promote unity and inclusive development”. This debate brought together voices from diverse institutions to engage in meaningful discourse. Moving forward we collaborated with the Department of Science, and co-hosted the 7th edition of the Dr. Kalam Series. We also hosted our flagship event Agree to Disagree- An OTT inspired debate competition that mixed entertainment with strong arguments. Adding to the excitement, the winner was awarded a Netflix subscription, making debate both compelling and rewarding.

Culminating the session, we hosted our annual event, "Soliloquy'25" under Quintessence featuring, Aqeeda – The Open Mic Competition which was a celebration of powerful expression and thoughtful dialogue and Hannah Sen Memorial Debate, where sharp minds engaged in meaningful argumentation on pressing issue, “The viral spread of memes following India's Got Latent demonstrates that in today's India, controversies are not mere accidents but strategic tools crafted to attract attention and amplify publicity.”

Throughout the year, the core team of Vani stood as paragons of dedication and eloquence. They represented the society with confidence and grace in inter-college debates, workshops, and extempore events, upholding the values of thoughtful dialogue and intellectual integrity. As we reflect on a year of vibrant engagement, we do so with gratitude for the voices that rose, the minds that opened, and the questions that dared to be asked. In debate, we find not just the courage to speak, but the grace to listen- and therein lies our true achievement.
